MARINER MADE CITIZEN.

Capt. Olaf Magnus Manning, forty-five years old, was admitted to full citizenship yesterday by Chief Justice Mc Coy of the District Supreme Court.

The new citizen when asked to display any marks or scars which would disqualify him from being an American, exhibited one of his arms bearing a "red scar bracelet." Asked as to the cause of the wound, he said it was a result of a fight with a man who was a young man he had a difficulty with. HOME OWNERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION WILL HOLD PUBLIC EXPERIENCE MEETING.

Buyers of homes in Washington have been unable to obtain possession of them will hold an experience meeting tonight at 20 New York avenue under the auspices of the newly formed Home Owners' Protective Association. Harshness which have been forced upon hundreds of bona fide purchasers because of the action of tenants in evoking legal processes to delay surrender of possession will be aired for the first time in public and a record made of the statements for presentation to Congress.

In all the talk of profiteering landlords and persecuted tenants one class of citizens—the legitimate home buyers who have been denied possession of their property—has been almost entirely overlooked, according to members of the new association.

The complaint of these citizens is not against landlords but rather against tenants who have refused to surrender property to which they are not entitled and subjecting the owners to no end of expense and inconvenience, it is charged.

Have Proved an Obstacle. Delays incident when contesting in court the owner's right of occupancy have proved an obstacle home purchasers could not overcome, but they believe Congress can and will devise a measure of relief when their plight is fully understood.

Charles Joyce, counsel for the association, has been swamped with appeals from home owners to bring the situation to the attention of Congress. Many of the stories told Mr. Joyce have depicted the situation to be even worse than was suspected at the time the association was formed. While it has been impossible to ascertain how many owners have been frustrated in their attempts to gain possession, Mr. Joyce believes the number runs into thousands.

"The most flagrant instances of profiteering by tenants have been brought to light," he said today. "Congress has been very considerate of the tenants of Washington. Practically speaking, Congress has given the tenants an opportunity to become landlords themselves—at the expense of the owners. There are a great many tenants to my knowledge who, under the protection of Congress, have been able to buy the property in which they live, the owners being forced to sell at a loss."

This has been done and is still being done to the great detriment and loss of the property owners. I am convinced that at least three-fourths of the property profiting in Washington has been done by the tenants themselves, while the landlords have been held up by the renter's rate at a time when the dollar had only about 33 per cent purchasing power."

Refers to Recent Case. Mr. Joyce referred to one of the most recent cases brought to his attention, that involving the purchase of a house by a tenant, who, after the purchase, had been occupied by a man and his family. "The house happened to be occupied by a profiteering tenant who refused to vacate," he said. "The tenant was clearing about $100 per month on rentals from the rooms, besides having a home for himself at no cost. She was paying for the house a rental that was fixed fifteen years before. Although the property was a house, the owner had to carry, he has received no rent for the house. The owner made an attempt to sell the house, but the tenant refused to vacate. The tenant was successful in securing the house for himself, and the owner was left with a house that was a financial burden."
